BACKGROUND OF THE SEMINAR :

Assam is well known for its rich ethnic and cultural heritage all over the country. Over the hundred of years of its national life, it has absorbed cultures and colors of different ethnic groups and origins to form its unique presence. However, the integration process into mainstream Assamese culture of these diverse groups has been handicapped on several counts resulting into identity crisis and alienation of these groups. Among these groups, the inhabitants of char areas in Assam constitute a significant case in point. Placed in the most inhospitable and geographically isolated areas of the state, the char of the mighty Brahmaputra, they contribute substantially not only to the economy of the state but also to enriching and enlivening of the mainstream culture.

But it is unfortunate that after century long settlement in this state many basic issues have remained unaddressed in the life of these people. The most fundamental issue is the absorption into cultural ethos of Assam. Despite having inherited a rich and vibrant culture from its parent source why they have failed to get into the heart of the mainstream culture of the land and thus remained a fossil is a burning question now. It needs to deliberate in different forums to find causes that are eating into vitals of the cultural wealths of char areas people.

OBJECTIVES OF THE SEMINAR :

- To bring about a synthesis among the divergent aspects of the culture of the char-chapori people.
- To facilitate the ways and means for enriching the cultural health of the char areas people.
